The latest news of the Lascaux Program

International seminar on the EU external relations Law after the Lisbon Treaty on November 24th and 25th, 2011 :

This seminar is co-organized by Lascaux and the Laboratoire Droit et Changement Social at the University of Nantes. Feel free to consult the program for more information and register if you wish to attend.

Doctoral seminar on food and fundamental rights (November 29th and 30th) :

A lecture on China's system of protection of Human Rights will be given by Professor Erping LI (Kunming University of Science and Technology, China). M. LI will also present a case study on China's control over access to land and food.

Changes in the Lascaux team :

The Lascaux team would like to welcome Thomas BRÉGER, who will replace Céline FERCOT as the new post-doctoral researcher starting December 1st, 2011. In June 2010, Thomas defended his thesis entitled L'accès des pays en développement aux médicaments, enjeu d'une rénovation des politiques de développement, under the direction of Professeur Joël BOUDANT.

Last month's activities in short :

On October 24th, PhD student Juanjuan SUN attended the conference « Food Safety Regulation and International Trade of Food: EU, US, China, India and Japan », organized by the AEDA in Brussels, Belgium. The discussions focused on the regional rules of control of imported and exported commodities and the issues related to international food trade.

On November 2nd, the Lascaux team had the honor to meet with Jill Carr Harris, a representative of Ekta Parishad, a non-violent social movement in India working on the issue of access to land at a national level.

On November 4th, the Lascaux Program welcomed Max Bugnicourt, who led a seminar on biological hazards to the students of Master 2 Droit des activités économiques at Iquabian (an abstract of the presentation will soon be available online on lascaux's website).
