February 2013 (n° 33)

Conference « Law, Economy and agricultural commodity markets », March 20-21st, 2013, :

Auditorium THOMSON REUTERS - 6-8 Bvd Haussman, Paris 9^e

Speculation on agricultural commodities is a topical yet still unfamiliar subject. Although food commodities are basic goods for human consumption, their accessibility depends in great part on the price at which they are traded on markets. Therefore, it is important to understand the legal and economic mechanisms involved in the process of pricing.

On the initiative of LASCAUX, a conference between lawyers and economists will take place during two days to discuss the issues relating to global food security and reflect on the role of the law and the economy in regard to speculation on prices as well as potential solutions to the issue of access to sufficient and healthy food

The acts of the colloquium will be published by Lextenso in the collection Droit & Economie. A selection of contributions will also be published in the Revue de jurisprudence commerciale and in the Revue trimestrielle de droit financier.

The complete program of the event is available on our website.
